ARTHUR M. MASON
CHIEF ADMINISTRATIVE JUSTICE

March 1, 1985

Honorable Edward F. Hennessey
Chief Justice
Supreme Judicial Court
1300 New Court House
Boston, Massachusetts 02108

Dear Chief Justice Hennessey:

In compliance with M.G.L. c. 211B, sec. 9, I am pleased to submit herewith the sixth Annual Report of the Massachusetts Trial Court. The Report is a compilation of narrative and statistical material relating the activities of the Trial Court during 1984.

Our initial Annual Report for 1978 consisted of approximately 65 pages. The statistical information contained in the Report was gathered manually and simply reported.

The Annual Report for 1984 is 241 pages. It was produced with the assistance of state of the art technology. The Report contains computer generated graphics as well as a number of new charts with meaningful data correlated in a variety of formats.

The Annual Report for 1984 presents the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court with a comprehensive, detailed and we believe accurate overview of the progress in the Trial Court during the past six years. It also permits the Justices the opportunity to discern those areas within the Trial Court requiring further attention.

The submission of the Annual Report of the Trial Court to the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court also provides me with the opportunity to acknowledge and appropriately credit Henry L. Barr, Esquire, Trial Court Administrator, the Administrative Justices, Associate Justices, the staff of the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice and the approximately 5,000 employees of the Trial Court for their commitment to excellence.

To you, Chief Justice, and to the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court, my personal appreciation for your continuing interest and support in our administrative efforts to improve the orderly administration of justice within the Trial Court.

Sincerely,

Arthur M. Mason
Chief Administrative Justice

AMM:SEH

Office of the Chief Administrative Justice

The Sixth Annual Report of the Chief Administrative Justice is prepared pursuant to the provisions of G.L. c. 211B, s.9. The report summarizes the operation of the Massachusetts Trial Court from January 1, 1984, to December 31, 1984. Administrative summaries of the Administrative Offices of the seven Trial Court Departments, the Office of the Commissioner of Probation, and the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice pertain to calendar year 1984 while the statistical findings of these departments were compiled during Fiscal Year 1984 (July 1, 1983, to June 30, 1984).

Pursuant to the Court Reorganization Act of 1978, the several Trial Courts of the Commonwealth were administratively consolidated into a Trial Court consisting of seven departments. These departments include the Superior Court, District Court, Probate and Family Court, Juvenile Court, Boston Municipal Court, Land Court, and Housing Court.

The Chief Administrative Justice is the administrative head of the Trial Court. To assist the Chief Administrative Justice, the position of Administrator of Courts for the Trial Court was statutorily mandated.

Each of the seven departments of the Trial Court is administered by an Administrative Justice. The Trial Court as an administrative unit consists of 279 Associate Justices. In addition, the organization of the Trial Court includes the Office of the Commissioner of Probation.

The Office of the Chief Administrative Justice (OCAJ) is organized into four major departments: Employee Relations/Personnel, Fiscal, Legal, and Systems and Planning. In addition, OCAJ utilizes an administrative support staff and a special projects team.

During 1984, OCAJ implemented several new projects which led to modernization in data and support collections. An on-line Civil Case Information System was fully implemented in the entire Superior Court Department, and the Probation Receipt Accounting System (PRA) added seven court locations to its network.

Other accomplishments of OCAJ included the execution of four collective bargaining agreements affecting about 1,700 Trial Court employees, the acquisition of the old District Courthouse in Cambridge, the offering of several education and training programs, minimum standards for law library collections were established, and the purchasing of materials to equip courthouses in New Bedford and Westfield.

In July 1984, a Judicial Response System was implemented. The statewide system ensures the ability to conduct a judicial hearing anywhere in the state, 24 hours per day, 7 days a week. Over 200 Trial Court Justices participated in the system, serving in a rotational system either as "on call" or "back up" justice for one of nine geographic regions. Through a cooperative effort with the Massachusetts State Police and their communications network, Trial Court Justices responded to 139 requests for judicial intervention after regularly scheduled court hours in the last six months of 1984. The system is centrally administered at the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice.

Legislation enacted in 1984 (C. 234 of the Acts of 1984) established a court services committee. The committee was charges with researching and evaluation court clinic programs and making recommendations for a comprehensive court clinic program for the Commonwealth. The evaluation study was undertaken in late 1984 by Abt Associates. The committee will study the report and make its findings to the Legislature in the spring of 1985.

Legislation was also enacted (C. 197 of the Acts of 1984) providing for a systematic review of foster care placements by the committing court and the Department of Social Services so that permanency planning for children in foster care is facilitated. In anticipation of the effective date of the Legislation (July 1, 1985), a court committee is developing rules for foster care review hearings. Training sessions on the implementation of the Legislation will be conducted in the spring of 1985.

The Office of the Chief Administrative Justice supervised the first full year of operation for the Trial Court Records Facility. Located at Worcester State Hospital, the storage facility stores court documents which cannot be destroyed. This enables clerk-magistrates to ease overcrowding conditions within their courthouses. As of this writing, only a third of the facility's storage capacity is being used, and court records have been received from many divisions of the Trial Court.

Employee Relations/Personnel

The following is a summary of the major activities in the Employee Relations Department covering the period from January 1, 1984, through December 31, 1984:

During the year the collective bargaining negotiations completed with four Unions covering approximately 1,690 employees were the following:

- On March 22, 1984, an Agreement was executed with the O.P.E.I.U. (Office and Professional Employees International Union), Local 6, Professional Unit. This Agreement is for the three-year period from July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1986 and covers approximately 50 employees.

- On August 9, 1984, an Agreement was executed with the S.E.I.U. (Service Employees International Unit), Local 254, (Court Officers and Probation Officers). This Agreement is for the three-year period from July 1, 1984, through June 30, 1987, and covers approximately 1,500 employees.

- On August 16, 1984, an Agreement was executed with the Suffolk County Superior Court Officers' Association. This Agreement is for the three-year period from July 1, 1984, through June 30, 1987, and covers approximately 75 employees.

- On September 16, 1984, an Agreement was executed with the Middlesex County Superior Court Officers' Association. This Agreement is for the period from July 1, 1984, through June 30, 1987 and covers approximately 65 employees.

- The Chief Administrative Justice submitted to the Governor requests for the appropriation necessary to fund the estimated incremental cost increase for each of the new Agreements.

Several changes were made in the new Agreements with the Unions. Some of the more substantive changes were as follows:

- Each contract contains a provision to provide for a dental and optical health plan for employees. During the life of the Agreements, the Employer will contribute a maximum of $4.00 per week per each full-time employee the equivalent covered by the Agreement. A dental and optical health plan was also included in this Agreement with the O.P.E.I.U. executed on June 28, 1983.

- Each contract contains a provision to allow an employee to bring a grievance directly to management for discussion and resolution without the intervention of the Union. This action would be taken by an employee prior to the filing of a formal written grievance. A resolution to the problem made by management must not be inconsistent with the terms of the applicable collective bargaining Agreement.

- Each contract contains a provision which provides for the remission of tuition in whole or in part for an employee enrolled at a State institution of higher education excluding the University of Massachusetts Medical Center. Employees who enroll in a degree program receive full tuition remission, and employees who enroll in a continuing program receive one-half tuition remission. During the year, the department processed 630 employee requests for tuition remission.

Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual. Section 4.600 - Classsification and Wage Compensation Plan was added to the manual. This procedure provides a means by which a department head can request that a position be evaluated for change as to job content and/or salary level within the overall systemwide compensation program established for the Trial Court Department. The program is designed to respond to the operational needs of the several departments of the Trial Court. During the year, we received 70 requests from departments to review positions. Eleven were approved, seven were rejected, and 52 are in process.

Section 16.00 - Rules and Discipline was amended to include a procedure to be followed by the Advisory Committee on Personnel Standards regarding the removal of officers and employees pursuant to G.L. c.211B s.8.

Processing. About 1,260 new hires and promotions, 141 requests for leaves of absence, 2,369 requests for step increases, and 217 industrial accident reports were processed by the department. About 170 of the requests for step increases were rejected because of the nonconformance with the provisions for compensation as contained in the collective bargaining Agreements or Personnel Policies and Procedures Manual. During the year several seminars were held for court personnel who are responsible for processing industrial accident claims.

Affirmative Action. The affirmative action officer visited many divisions of the Trial Court in response to requests for technical assistance to insure affirmative action compliance. The officer met with Presiding Justices, Clerk-Magistrates, and Chief Probation Officers to discuss affirmative action. Since October 1980, minority employment has increased from 195 employees to 438 employees as of December 31, 1984. Since October 1980, minority employment has increased from 195 employees (3.9 percent) to 438 employees (9.1 percent) at the end of 1984. Minorities include American Indian, Asian/Pacific Islander, Cape Verdean, Blacks, and Hispanics.

Fiscal Department

The Fiscal Department is responsible for the financial operation of the Trial Court and for the preparation of its annual budget request.

In Fiscal Year 1984, budget requests, appropriations, and central accounts were set up for Justices' salaries, clerical assistance, warranty services, education, training, law libraries, jury/witness expenses and indigent defense costs. The indigent defense account for counsel, except juvenile counsel, was transferred from the Trial Court to a new public counsel operation in July of 1984 (Fiscal Year 1985). Through centralization, expenditure control has been improved. With the centralized purchasing of equipment and printing, competitive bidding procedures were developed for major expenditures. Requests for Proposals have resulted in fostering competition and increasing the purchasing power of the Trial Court's appropriation.

In 1984, new typewriter purchases for the system were continued, relieving the courts of the burdens of expensive maintenance contracts and costly parts for old machines. Purchases have expanded to include a variety of electronic typing units to meet the individual needs of the courts. Stations for typing and text editing and the typing of automative dockets are examples of units installed in some court departments. These various experimental installations have been selected in order to determine economic alternatives to the more expensive word processors.

A major purchasing effort made in Fiscal Year 1983 to furnish a new courthouse in New Bedford, which will house the divisions of both the District Court and Juvenile Court Departments, was completed in Fiscal Year 1984. The furnishing and equipping of the new courthouse facilities in Bristol County and Westfield were completed in Fiscal Year 1984, approximately 20 percent under budget.

Due to centralized expenditure planning and procedures, there have been no deficiencies in any of the accounts centralized through Fiscal Year 1984 with the exception of the indigent court cost account which costs are mandated by statute and, therefore, not within management control.

In Fiscal Year 1983, through the Request for Proposal procedure, a contract was signed with a banking institution for financial services required for processing Special Payments, i.e., checks processed by the courts for juror/witness fees. In July of Fiscal Year 1984, checking accounts were set up in each court, and new account numbers will be issued for each fiscal year. This will allow for better accountability and provide a way for reconciling monies received by the court divisions.

The improved Special Payments checking account system was further simplified in Fiscal Year 1984 through the redesigning of the McBee One-Write system for recording and reporting jury and witness expenses and the automated reconciliation reports generated by the bank. The redesigned system will facilitate the work performed by each court bookkeeper.

In addition, the manual Probation Receipt Accounting System was redesigned in a coordinated effort by a number of chief probation offices and the Department of Fiscal Affairs. Because of the contract terms between the Trial Court and the vendor, redesigned systems, inventory control practices and all associated costs (including emergency and other shipping costs) will be paid by the vendor. Changes in system design, inventory control, procurement procedures, and management policy have led to an overall decrease in costs since the initial implementation of the receipting and disbursement systems.

A Commodity Coding System for identifying the various types of goods purchased by the Trial Court as required by state purchasing procedures was implemented in the fall of 1984. Training workshops were conducted by the Fiscal staff of the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice in various locations throughout the Commonwealth, and implementation was in place by October 1984.

Major design work for the automation of a financial information system was completed in Fiscal Year 1984. The system will automate the invoice processing procedures and the budget process. Automation of the invoice processing procedures is now being developed and will be initiated in the spring of Fiscal Year 1985. The automation of the budget process system has been completed since October 1, 1984, and will be ready for use by June 30, 1985.

The financial information system encompasses data on both the central accounts administered through the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice and the court divisions' accounts, administered locally with invoices processed through the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice. The system will provide timely information necessary for the preparation of accurate budget requests and spending plans required by executive and legislative agencies. Microcomputer hardware, necessary to implement the system, was obtained early in 1984.

Legal Department

The Legal Department is responsible for the oversight of legal matters within the Trial Court and confers regularly with persons within the executive and legislative branches of state government concerning legal and administrative matters.

Legislation. The Legal Department is involved in the preparation, review, and filing of legislation on behalf of the judicial branch as well as the daily monitoring of the legislative process. Reports and research material on legislation are also provided to the Massachusetts Judicial Conference at its regularly scheduled meetings. The department responds to inquiries from legislative committees, the Governor's Legislative Office, and interested citizens groups on proposed legislation.

Contracts. The Legal Department is responsible for the review and approval of all contracts entered into by the Trial Court including contracts to purchase or lease equipment, furnishings, or services. Any necessary amendments to contracts are negotiated and drafted by the department. The Legal Department reviewed, negotiated and, where appropriate, drafted amendments to over 300 contracts during calendar year 1984.

Labor. The Legal Department is responsible for the conduct of litigation of labor issues before State, and on occasion Federal Courts, the State Labor Relations Commission, the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, the Civil Service Commission, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Department of Employment Security and for research, preparation of briefs and development of information necessary for litigation, negotiations, grievances, and other related matters. Grievance arbitration is conducted when necessary before arbitrators, and advice is provided on labor issues, negotiations, labor contracts, and personnel and employment law to the Chief Administrative Justice, the Trial Court Administrator, Department Heads, and the Director of Employee Relations.

Real Property. The Legal Department is responsible for the drafting and negotiation of leases for 82 county-owned buildings, 14 city and town-owned buildings, and 10 privately-owned buildings. It is anticipated that the total rental monies that will be paid under these lease agreements for Fiscal Year 1985 will be approximately $29,000,000. The department participates in rental hearing under Mass. G.L. Chapter 29A and appeals therefrom to the Supreme Judicial Court.

The department oversees new construction and renovation of courthouse facilities and is presently participating in projects involving (1) renovations to the Suffolk County Courthouse, the Haverhill Division, and the New Bedford Probate and Family Courthouse; (2) new construction of courthouses for the Amesbury, Newburyport, Chicopee and Palmer Divisions; and (3) the purchase of the old Third District Court building in East Cambridge. A capital outlay budget for the Judicial Branch is developed annually by the department after consultation with the Judicial Facilities Committee. The capital outlay recommendations for Fiscal Year 1986 totaled $69,000,000.

Litigation. Justices, Clerk-Magistrates, Registers of Probate, Chief Probation Officers, and other personnel in the Trial Court are on occasion made parties to litigation before a court or administrative agency. Many of these cases have broad implications for the entire court system and often require representation of multiple party defendants on identical issues. The Legal Department determines whether the matter should be handled in-house or referred to the Department of the Attorney General for representation. Thirty-four actions, exclusive of labor cases, were commenced against personnel with the Trial Court in calendar year 1984. The Office of the Chief Administrative Justice initiated two lawsuits in calendar year 1984 to require Counties to correct certain conditions in courthouse facilities which adversely affected the ability of the Judicial Branch to safely and effectively administer justice.

General. The Legal Department, in its principal function to provide research assistance to the Chief Administrative Justice and the Trial Court Administrator, prepares memoranda in response to inquiries from the Legislature and Executive Branches of government and responds to questions of a legal nature from within the Judicial System and the general public on a variety of subjects. The department drafts and submits to the Chief Administrative Justice proposed Administrative Directives, orders, correspondence, memoranda, and informational bulletins. It also assists the Chief Administrative Justice with his responsibility to review all proposed rules, rules amendments, and standing orders of the various departments of the Trial Court and provides support to Trial Court Committees working in these areas. The Legal Department also provides support assistance in personnel matters, in the development of standard personnel policies and procedures and has participated in the continuing effort to develop and standardize forms and procedures throughout the Departments of the Trial Court. It also coordinated 180 interdepartmental assignments of Justices pursuant to Mass. G.L. Chapter 211B, Section 9 for the Chief Administrative Justice during calendar year 1984.

The Legal Department negotiated the purchase of the old Third District Courthouse in Cambridge which was acquired by the Trial Court on January 24, 1985.

Systems and Planning Department

The Systems and Planning Department was organized in late 1981 and combined the operations of planning and research, administration of law libraries, computer systems development, education and training, and public information under one manager to improve the effectiveness of all these functions. The Department is able to form working teams around specific issues and projects and to maintain control over progress on a daily basis.

In April 1982, responsibility for the management of computer systems programming and operations was added to the department, bringing all aspects of data processing functions together under one director. Included among the department's responsibilities in addition to those above are statistical presentations of Trial Court activities, production of a monthly newsletter, and this Annual Report.

Automated Systems. Among the major computer system activities in 1984 was the addition of seven divisions of the Probate and Family Court and District Court Departments to the Probation Receipt Accounting System (PRA) which the Department developed and began implementing in 1982, bringing to a total of 24 divisions using the system by the end of 1984. It is expected that more than 50 divisions of the Trial Court will be using this system when implementation is completed.

The PRA System provides probation offices of the Probate and District Court Divisions with completely automated collection and processing of support payments, restitutions, and other receipts through the use of remote computer terminals connected by leased data lines to our Burroughs 6800 mainframe computer in eastern Massachusetts. The PRA System has been very well received by the Trial Court Divisions.

The on-line Civil Case Information System was completed and implemented in Superior Court Divisions across the state in 1984, and programming for the on-line Criminal Case Information System was completed in 1984. The Criminal system will be implemented in Superior Court Divisions in 1985. Both of these systems provide Trial Court management with increased capacity to manage and improve the flow of cases through the Divisions.

Experimental court case management systems were developed and implemented on a test basis in two Superior Court Divisions in 1984. A Civil Case Tracking System is being tested in the Plymouth Division utilizing a remote terminal to the B6800 mainframe computer; and an Individual Calendaring Session System is being tested in the Middlesex Division utilizing a microcomputer. Both systems are designed to provide the Justices with the advantages of automation in management of their caseloads.

A major performance and capacity analysis of the Trial Court's Burroughs 6800 computer was conducted in 1984, which yielded several results: improvements were made in several computer programs to improve the efficiency of their utilization or processor memory; it was determined that efficient operation of those programs required additional processor memory, which was added to the B6800 in November; and our staff knowledge of performance and capacity analysis techniques was substantially increased.

Also, in the course of this analysis, it was determined that the response time required by the on-line users of our computer programs could not be achieved by the B6800 computer and that a second, more powerful processor would need to be added to work in tandem with the B6800 processor to provide the required response time. It was also determined that the already planned addition of users to our computer systems in the next year would exceed the capacity of those two processors, and the B6800 processor would need to be replaced at that time with a more powerful processor.

Accordingly, a deficiency appropriation request was submitted for purchase of a Burroughs A9F processor, and documentation of our anticipated expenditures in the next two years for child support enforcement through the PRA System was submitted through the State Child Support Office to the Federal Child Support Office in application for Federal reimbursement totalling $2,500,000, which will more than cover the cost of purchase of two A9F processors. The Federal Child Support Office has already expressed strong support for this reimbursement, and routine approval is expected.

Meanwhile, addition of new users to our computer systems is being delayed until the new processor is installed.

At the request of the Administrative Justice of the Probate and Family Court Department, a major systems analysis effort was begun in 1984 on the operations of the Register of Probate offices with the intent of determining the best ways to automate those operations. The systems analysis was well advanced at year end, and it is anticipated that automated system design and programming for those offices will be completed and implementation of that system will begin in 1985.

Other systems completed and implemented on microcomputers in 1984 included a personnel information system for the OCAJ Personnel Department; and a personnel scheduling system, budget analysis system, and equipment inventory system for the Fiscal Department.

This Department also supported during 1984 the expansion of the automated Jury Management System to Essex and Suffolk Counties and the extensive preparation required for expansion of this system in 1985 to Worcester and Hampden Counties.

Education and Training. During 1984, the education and training unit developed training programs for Trial Court professional staff, funded the numerous educational efforts of the Trial Court Departments, and provided coordinating and staffing services for the Judicial Response System Conference.

The 18 Trial Court law libraries received support from the central education account for the development of three programs. The programs conducted were Evaluation of Vendor Services, Serving the Public Patron, and Serving the Primary Patron.

Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) certificates were earned by almost 200 court officers. A computerized system for tracking participants and programs was developed. It provides accurate and timely reports on CPR-certified personnel.

Briefing sessions on competitive bid and contract procedures were conducted across the state during the fall. The Legal Department conducted the sessions with administrative support and coordinating services provided by the education and training unit.

A training program for Fiscal Staff in the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice on written communication skills was conducted in December.

Two programs were conducted on disciplinary procedures under union agreements for Presiding Justices, clerk-magistrates, and registers of probate. The programs focused on the concepts and practical application of due process and progressive discipline in labor relations and the role of the department head in the process.

The education unit was responsible for the development, editing, and overall production of the Judicial Response System Handbook. The education unit also coordinated the production of the Judicial Response System conferences held in June.

Funds from the central account for education-supported programs for judges and clerks from the Superior Court Department, District Court Department, Juvenile Court Department, and the Probate and Family Court Department. The Law-Related Education Program and the program on the humanities, "To Do Justice", of the District Court Department also received financial support from the central account for education and training. Funds were used to support individual conference fees for seminars and workshops conducted in-state.

Carr, Pittsfield; Carlo A. Tagliavini, Westfield; and Robert E. Fein, Springfield; attend the Disciplinary and Grievance Procedures Workshop held in December 1984.*

Law Libraries. During 1984, the librarians began to keep statistics on who uses the libraries. The results indicate that 73 percent of the users are part of the legal community (judges, law clerks, court personnel, and attorneys) and 27 percent of the users are students, public officials, and public patrons.

A departmental law librarian was hired in February to work with the seven Trial Court Departments on maintenance of lobby collections and divisional library collections. The Guidelines for the Delivery of Library Services to the Trial Court provide the minimum standards for these collections. As of 1984, each division has a library contact in the court who handles maintenance of the lobby and/or library collections.

With constantly expanding legal series, the librarians continued to weed the collections of the least used materials in order to provide growth space for new materials. Three libraries (Dukes, Essex, and Plymouth) have completely rearranged the collections to make them more accessible to the user.

With the cooperation of the County Commissioners, the Berkshire, New Bedford and Plymouth Law Libraries were painted, which greatly enhanced the working environments. The Plymouth Law Library is now staffed daily from 9:00 to 1:00.

The librarians continue to utilize interlibrary loan to obtain materials needed by patrons which are not in the collection, advise courts which are either creating or updating their library collections, teach other librarians about legal materials, and meet several times a year to discuss how to improve library service to the Trial Court.

Computer-Assisted Legal Research (CALR). After a trial year, CALR terminals have been located in seven locations. LEXIS is available in Boston (Superior Court and Boston Municipal Court) and Springfield. Westlaw is available in Brockton, Cambridge, Dedham, and Salem. Law clerks, judges, and other appropriate Trial Court personnel continue to be trained.

Public Information. The public information officer writes and edits the monthly newsletter of the Trial Court, the Bay State Briefs, for 5,000 personnel throughout the 14 counties of the Commonwealth. This office also is responsible for the production of the Annual Report of the Trial Court, a text which contains the administrative and statistical highlights for the seven Trial Court Departments, the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice, and the Office of the Commissioner of Probation. The public information officer also conducts courthouse tours for visiting school groups and foreign dignitaries, tackles special projects, and responds to inquiries from the press and the public.

MASSACHUSETTS JUDICIAL SYSTEM

The Massachusetts Trial Court

Boston Municipal Court Department

The Boston Municipal Court Department has shown an increase in the workload of all departments. The number of civil cases in the Civil Division of the Boston Municipal Court Department has increased from 34,302 in Fiscal Year 1983 to 37,989 in Fiscal Year 1984.

There has been a marked increase in the Small Claims Division of the Civil Clerk-Magistrate's Office, with 6,457 Small Claims commenced and 3,901 Small Claims Supplementary Process cases initiated for a total of 10,358 entries. To service the additional caseload in Small Claims, the Clerk-Magistrate has merged the Supplementary Process and Small Claims Departments. The Small Claims staff is further enhanced by the use of additional personnel, including an Assistant Clerk-Magistrate, on a daily basis. No staff was added to the Civil Clerk-Magistrate's Office.

In Fiscal Year 1984, under the Uniform Magistrate Rules, the Civil Clerk-Magistrate's Office processed and disposed of over 6,200 civil motions, and the court acted on more than 5,300 applications for attachment (keepers, real estate, etc.) during the same period. There was no marked increase in Summary Process cases during Fiscal Year 1984.

During Fiscal 1984, the court heard over 2,500 cases (including remands and assessments) on the regular civil docket. Total executions issued in Fiscal 1984 amounted to 12,033. Under the provisions of Municipal/District Court Rule 109, older civil cases were placed on the trial list during Fiscal 1984. A total of 1,355 cases was dismissed due to neither party appearing, defendant only appearing, or cases reported settling.

The Civil Clerk's Office is now handling complaints under Chapter 209A (Spousal Abuse). It is also to be noted that the Boston Municipal Court Department has its own Appellate Division for the review of cases decided in this court.

In the Criminal Division of the Boston Municipal Court Department, the business handled in the Suffolk County Jury-of-Six Session has increased each year since court reorganization. In Fiscal 1984 the Jury-of-Six Session received over 5,300 complaints from all the courts in Suffolk County, including the Boston Municipal Court Department, as compared to 3,368 in 1979. The percentage of first instance jury cases received has increased from 25 percent of the total caseload in 1979 to about 50 percent of the total caseload in 1984. Although the criminal caseload of the Boston Municipal Court Department has not significantly increased during Fiscal 1984, the number of probable cause hearings involving murder, rape, robbery, etc. has increased.

The library has been improved, and the Boston Municipal Court is one of the first sites in the state using court-owned equipment for computer-assisted legal research. All of the judges have been trained in the use of LEXIS, and several use the lobby microcomputer regularly.

Microcomputers also have been installed in the Probation Department and the two Clerks' offices. Management reports, word processing, graphic presentations, and communications are regularly used to improve court operations.

Destruction, removal, and/or selective retention of court records will be undertaken throughout the year. This will free considerable storage space for current work. Flat filing and automated complaint preparation ("SYSTEMATICS") will be implemented in the criminal clerk's office.

Mediation (with the Crime and Justice Foundation and the Massachusetts Bar Association) continues to handle approximately 200 referrals each year.

In December 1984, the BMC shipped 1400 boxes of civil cases dating from the 1700's to 1960 to the Trial Court Records Storage Facility. L-R, Sean Durant and William Lynch make a final check before the shipment.

District Court Department

Sentencing Standards. In September 1984, the Administrative Office issued a new volume in its series of Standards of Judicial Practice. Titled "Sentencing and Other Dispositions," the standards address such issues as the form and contents of probation reports, the appropriate use of continuances without a finding, the role of probation, fines and surfines, the use of suspended sentences and incarceration, modifications of original dispositions and a variety of other matters. Prepared by the District Court Committee on Standards, these standards will contribute to better understanding of the complex procedural issues and the nomenclature surrounding the sentencing process in the District Court. They address the procedural side of the sentencing process only, however, and not the question of what a "correct" sentence in a particular case should be, the latter being a matter that is reserved to the sound discretion of the court.

While not mandatory in application in the sense of rules, the Standards of Judicial Practice represent a qualitative consensus reached by the Committee on Standards. Each district court is expected to strive for compliance with the standards and treat them as a statement of desirable practice to be departed from only with good reason.

Small Claims Standards. Also issued in 1984 were standards of judicial practice addressing the small claims process. Prepared by the District Court Committee on Small Claims, these long-awaited standards cover an area where consumerism and court procedure often meet and where the court must attempt to specially fulfill its twin obligations of doing justice and assuring the appearance of justice. The absence of counsel and the sincerity and faith with which parties often prosecute their positions can make fulfillment of these obligations particularly difficult in small claims cases. It is to help guide the court in its difficult task that the standards are dedicated. The 41 standards included in this volume cover such areas as commencing small claims actions, issuing notice, pretrial matters, mediation vs. trial, and judgments and payment orders as well as organizational factors conducive to the efficient operation of the small claims section of the clerk-magistrate's office.

SYSTEMATIC-I. SYSTEMATIC-I is a District Court criminal case processing system that combines modern forms design with electronic word processing equipment to produce in an efficient manner the papers necessary for criminal case processing. The system was installed in all 69 divisions in 1984 and was fully operational in all but a small number by the end of the year. The balance of the courts began using SYSTEMATIC-I on January 1, 1985.

Along with the modern disc-driven memory typewriters on which SYSTEMATIC-I operates, open shelf-filing equipment has also been delivered to the many district courts in order to implement flat filing and a color-coded filing system in criminal cases. These are integral elements of the SYSTEMATIC-I case processing system.

Criminal Penalty Book. A major accomplishment of SYSTEMATIC-I has been the implementation of uniform complaint language in the District Court. A committee of judges and clerk-magistrates reviewed the "charging language" of nearly 400 District Court offenses and established uniform language for each. The committee is now preparing a penalty book that will be a quick reference to the statutory penalties for these 400 offenses, plus others. The book will be distributed to all District Court judges. Upon the completion of the book, the committee expects to continue its work to integrate the penalties and the complaint language so that criminal complaints printed automatically on the SYSTEMATIC-I equipment will contain both and thus be more convenient for all participants in the criminal process.

SYSTEMATIC-II. The success of SYSTEMATIC-I has led to the prototype development of SYSTEMATIC-II, a microcomputer system to facilitate the processing of criminal cases in the District Court clerk-magistrates' offices. A joint project of the Administrative Office of the District Court and the Administrative Office of the Trial Court, SYSTEMATIC-II holds the promise of greatly improved recordkeeping in the clerk-magistrates' offices and better tracking and management of cases. SYSTEMATIC-II contains programs for the preparation of trial lists, etc. SYSTEMATIC-II is being tested in the Barnstable District Court, the "laboratory court" in the District Court system. On completion of the development and testing of SYSTEMATIC-II, it is hoped that it can be implemented throughout the District Court.

Support Enforcement. This continues to be a major focus of District Court activity. Child support collections in the District Court continued to climb during 1984. As of the end of October, nearly 25 million dollars had been collected. This is an increase of 15 percent over 1983 and nearly 40 percent over the same period in 1982.

This year there was also a major decrease in the number of names submitted to the IRS for the tax refund intercept program. Most of the approximately 45 percent increase in names submitted was attributable to District Court activity and participation. In addition, time spent by court employees on support activities results in federal reimbursement to the state of approximately 5 million dollars per year.

Massachusetts continues to be one of the most cost-effective states in support enforcement.

Law-Related Education. The District Court Law-Related Education (LRE) Program focused upon three major areas this year--improving local LRE programs, increasing the commitment of other agencies to the concept of law-related education, and building greater public understanding of the statewide one day-one trial jury system.

A special "in-house" publication was created to serve the needs of the 69 LRE coordinators throughout the department. Special attention was paid to helping local courts design effective Law Day programs. In some communities, mock trials were videotaped and shown on school television stations and local cable TV or run in conjunction with local schools to help make the connection between drinking, driving, and upcoming senior proms.

In cooperation with the Massachusetts Association for Law-Related Education, the program reached out to other agencies to encourage increased commitment of resources to the field of LRE. Numerous presentations were made to groups, and small grants were used to bring together people from varying backgrounds to conduct long-range planning designed to institutionalize law-related education in the schools.

Emphasis was also placed upon building public awareness of the one day-one trial jury system. The District Court LRE program cooperated with the Supreme Judicial Court, the Superior Court, and the Office of the Jury Commissioner to sponsor a day-long jury system conference for educators and court personnel. The LRE program also helped the Fitchburg District Court and Fitchburg State College to plan and conduct a second jury education conference patterned after this event.

Mediation. Mediation is an area of increasing public interest. It involves an independent third party who acts as a facilitator to the volunteer resolution of a dispute. It is particularly suited to resolving the underlying problems in disputes that may not be conducive to the "winner take all" approach of traditional litigation, such as cases which involve neighbors, relatives, landlords and tenants, and others who have ongoing relationships. Such disputes lend themselves to a process like mediation which has the capacity to open communications, improve relationships, and lead to agreements which last over time. In addition to its potential healing quality, mediation also has the ability to involve local residents in the work of the courts as community mediators. This interaction between the courts and the community could lead to a better informed public and a court system that commands enhanced public respect and support.

To further explore the potential of mediation, the District Court has established a Mediation Project with funding from the Gardiner Howland Shaw Foundation. This three-year project has four principal goals: to identify and define an appropriate role for mediation as a dispute resolution mechanism in the District Court; to determine through research and experimentation how mediation should operate within the District Court; to explore and develop strategies for institutionalizing mediation as a dispute resolution technique in the District Court; and to establish and maintain in the Administrative Office of the District Court the capacity to give technical assistance to mediation programs. Comments or questions on mediation should be directed to Ms. Albie M. Davis, Mediation Project Director.

Stress. Judicial stress is a subject that is receiving increasing attention in professional literature and one that has become a matter of increasing interest in the District Court.

There are many factors that contribute to stress in the judiciary, including such things as social isolation, financial pressures, lack of objective feedback or constructive criticism on one's daily work, an overload in the amount of information and data that must be absorbed, organized and weighed by judges, the absence of control over caseload, and a variety of other factors. In order to learn more about these issues, District Court judges and clerk-magistrates have received presentations at their periodic conferences on the subject of stress and "burnout."

In 1984, a further step was taken by the formation of a committee of District Court judges to analyze stress-producing factors and how they can be reduced or dealt with. The committee has been meeting regularly and has been assisted in its work by Dr. Isaiah M. Zimmerman, an internationally recognized clinical psychologist and expert on the highly specialized subject of judicial stress. The committee is pursuing a number of initiatives, including the preparation of a monograph on stress for District Court judges, the development of a mentor system to reduce the stress of transition to the bench for new judges, and the development of a syllabus for teaching about stress. It is hoped that the work of the committee will lead to a capacity within the District Court to address this complicated but recognized issue.

Studies. The District Court Administrative Office undertook several studies and surveys in 1984.

One such study pertained to court officers. The role of court officers in the District Court has undergone great change in recent years. For example, there is increasing concern over the issue of security in the district courts. The District Court survey of presiding justices gathered information on court officer staffing needs and helped identify areas where additional training is necessary.

A survey was also taken on the submission of motor vehicle abstracts by the district courts to the Registry of Motor Vehicles. This survey highlighted courts with abstract processing problems and helped to pinpoint areas where improvements in motor vehicle procedures are necessary. As a result of this study, a joint District Court-Registry of Motor Vehicles task force is being formed to prepare a handbook of instructions on the preparation and transmittal of Registry abstracts.

Another major survey that was undertaken pertains to warrants and defaults. Increasing attention is being given to this area of court administration. The District Court Committee on Motor Vehicle Proceedings is considering the problems arising from defaulting offenders and the management of warrants, both in motor vehicle and regular criminal cases. As part of the work of the committee, a questionnaire was distributed to all clerk-magistrates, and a great deal of information on how warrants are processed and managed in the individual district courts was gathered. In addition, visits were made to a number of district courts to observe default and warrant practices and to solicit the views of judges, clerk-magistrates and chief probation officers. A lengthy memorandum was distributed to the courts with an invitation for comment. The memorandum was not offered as a prescriptive plan but rather as a vehicle for thought and discussion and a means of heightening consciousness in this area. Additional work is going on in the warrant area, and a number of significant improvements are anticipated.

Trial de novo. In late 1983, the District Court Committee on Juries of Six filed a report which recommended the elimination of the trial de novo system in the Massachusetts District Court Department. The committee re-examined past recommendations for the elimination of trial de novo and designed a system for accomplishing that elimination. The report contains an extensive discussion of the history of the District Court and the development of the trial de novo system from early times, along with a lengthy statistical analysis and comment and discussion on a wide variety of related issues.

In December 1984, the Chief Justice of the District Court filed legislation to establish a one-trial system to replace the present de novo system in the District Court. Central to the proposed system is a process to insure each defendant the opportunity for a pretrial disposition after a pretrial conference. This procedure would operate so as to minimize delay and the burden on victims, while still maintaining the defendant's options for an appropriate pretrial disposition or a trial with or without a jury. The bill also contains a provision to allow for a return to the de novo procedure should the new system create unexpected adverse effects on the proper administration of justice.

Further information on the subject of trial de novo, including copies of the proposed legislation, a summary of the legislation and copies of the report can be obtained from the Administrative Office of the District Court Department, Holyoke Building, Holyoke Square, Salem, MA 01970.

Decriminalization. In 1984 the Administrative Office also filed comprehensive legislation to further simplify the handling of minor motor vehicle cases. Presently these matters may be disposed of non-criminally within a certain period, but the case becomes criminal if the violator does not respond. This necessitates many of the technical trappings of criminal procedure in a context which many persons believe should be basically administrative.

The proposed legislation would make most minor motor vehicle offenses non-criminal infractions. They would still be heard by the clerk-magistrates of the District Court, but instead of the case becoming criminal if the violator fails to respond, the violator would be informed that his driver's license and registration would be deemed suspended by operation of law at the end of 30 days unless the violator clears up the matter with the court and presents the Registry of Motor Vehicles with a certificate to that effect. The court would retain other options to bring the violator to court, such as the issuance of warrants and the initiation of contempt proceedings, but the threat of loss of license is expected to be the only sanction that would be necessary in most cases.

The proposed system has been developed in consultation with court, police, and Registry of Motor Vehicles personnel and offers the potential for greater efficiency, increased revenue collections, and improved highway safety.

Housing Court Department

With the creation of the Worcester County Division of the Housing Court Department, the Legislature has added a new dimension to the Housing Court Department. As with the Boston and Hampden Divisions, the new Worcester Division has powers in housing-related matters, both civil and criminal, equal to the District Court and Superior Court Departments. Judisdiction is concurrent with these departments, i.e., housing-related cases which may be entered or heard in the District or Superior Courts may be alternatively entered and heard in the Housing Court. Unlike the other two divisions, the Worcester Division must hold its sessions in various locations throughout Worcester County. Sessions will be held in the City of Worcester and in northern and southern sections of the county. The Honorable John G. Martin has been selected as the First Justice of the Court.

In both the Boston and Hampden Divisions, government agencies and the public have made extensive use of the Housing Court because of the ready access, flexible resolution mechanisms, and broad powers of the courts. These assets now will be available to the citizens of Worcester County.

The caseload in the Boston Division reflects its urban nature: a high volume of cases deal with violations of the state sanitary code, the state building code, summary process, and other landlord-tenant issues.

The Hampden Division hears similar cases, especially contract and tort actions involving residential property. As of this writing, the Worcester Division had not settled into its quarters or started to hear cases.

Case Entries. For the second consecutive year, the number of new entries increased at the Boston Division. In Fiscal Year 1984, 14,026 new entries were filed, 5,545 show cause hearings were held, some 25,000 to 30,000 matters were scheduled before the first session, and no backlog exists.

In Boston, summary process entries increased from 3,506 in Fiscal Year 1983 to 4,035 in Fiscal Year 1984, an increase of 529 cases. This is a minimum of 80 cases which must be heard each Thursday. Since the Uniform Rules of Summary Process provide that cases will be scheduled in the Thursday of the next week following the Monday filing date, the average figure is frequently exceeded by 50 to 75 percent, and it is not uncommon to have 140 to 150 cases scheduled on a given Thursday.

The parties are given the opportunity for mediation before a housing specialist. The success rate is good and a majority of mediated matters result in an agreement for judgment which is subsequently approved by the court without such a resolution mechanism, it would not be possible to complete the court's heavy summary process list without continuing cases for trial on other dates, and it is highly unlikely that the court could long remain current in its caseload.

The Boston Division also developed the first Housing Court internship in the nation with Suffolk University Law School. The program exposed second- and third-year law students to landlord and tenant problems and the applicable property law studied at law school. The program was successful and is being repeated in 1985.

Case entries in the Housing Court remained steady in 1984, with a consolidated increase in excess of the 21,274 cases entered in 1983.

The Boston Division registered an increase of 3 percent or 347 additional cases in reachning the 14,026 entries. Hampden has 234 fewer entries (-3 percent) in Fiscal Year 1984, but the 7,361 cases entered still represented a caseload 37 percent greater than five years ago.

Criminal entries were lower in both divisions, holding relatively steady in Boston.

Summary process cases were up in both divisions, holding relatively the same in Hampden but surging up by more than 500 cases in Boston. Civil cases were up 10 percent in Boston, 3 percent in Hampden. Small claims entries in Boston held relatively steady.

Juvenile Court Department

The Juvenile Court Department consists of divisions in Boston, Bristol County, Springfield, and Worcester. Within their respective jurisdictions, the divisions deal with all cases of delinquency, C.H.I.N.S. (Children in Need of Services), and Care and Protection Petitions. In those areas without juvenile courts, similar jurisdiction is exercised through the juvenile sessions of the District Courts. The divisions of the Juvenile Court Department also exercise jurisdiction over all de novo appeals within their respective counties.

During the past year, the department has continued its efforts to improve the delivery of psychiatric and psychological services throughout its jurisdiction. On-site clinic services have been provided to some extent at all divisions, under the direction of the Boston Juvenile Court Clinic, and further expansion is planned. Supervision and training are provided in three ways. 1) Each clinic has its own routine for intra-clinic supervision, collaboration, and case review. 2) A series of weekly seminars in forensic child psychiatry is offered to all personnel through the Boston Juvenile Court Clinic. 3) Monthly site visits to each clinic are made by the Boston Juvenile Court Clinic Director and Chief Social Worker.

Continuing its efforts to insure Permanency Planning for abused and neglected children, the Boston Division has expanded its CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocacy) Program, by recruiting and training additional volunteers. These volunteers, after intensive training, act as guardians ad litem, under the direction of a division staff person, to ensure that child abuse and neglect victims who have been removed from their own homes do not languish temporary foster homes. A community CASA Program has also been providing services to the Worcester Division.

With the cooperation of the superintendent of schools, an ongoing close liaison has continued betwen the Boston probation staff and the Boston Public Schools. This outreach program has resulted in an increase in truancy (CHINS) petitions and allowed for the early identification of the needs and the delivery of services to many children in their formative years, minimizing their potential for later delinquent activity.

The Citizenship Training Group Inc. (C.T.G.), the Youth Development Program, and Youth, Inc., all non-profit corporations, continue to provide intensive supervision and rehabilitative services, as a condition of probation, to the Boston, Springfield, and Worcester Courts respectively.

The Boston Division expanded its summer work program allowing more youngsters to learn better work habits, acquire some minimal occupational skills and remit restitution payments while deriving the benefits of earned income. The Boston Program has also recently added a girls' diversion program section to its C.T.G. schoolyear retraining and rehabilitation programs.

Court Jesters, Inc., at the Worcester Division, continues its recreational outlets for youngsters who have not previously participated in organized sports or other traditional programming. In conjunction with the United Way, Worcester has also initiated a diversion program wherein community service, in lieu of monetary payments, is an alternative disposition for minor motor vehicle violations.

The Springfield Division, in conjunction with the Division of Alcoholism, has continued its alcohol education program. This program is designed to alert juveniles to the dangers of alcohol abuse. Attendance is a condition of probation for those juveniles charged with possession or transportation of alcohol, and parent participation at the first of the program's four sessions is required.

The Springfield Division is also in the process of formalizing a program where community service projects are assigned as a condition of probation.

The department has continued its ongoing, in-service training program for its own personnel and for some others who provide court support services. Boston Division Court Clinic Training Programs include probation staff and other court personnel. Several individual staff members have taken advantage of the Trial Court Tuition Remission Program to further their education in court-related areas.

Consistent with its commitment to the education of the public in the area of children's needs and the role of the court in addressing these needs, court staff has continued to appear, upon request, before various medical, legal, social, and other community and child advocacy groups. Court staff members have participated in several training programs in conjunction with various public and private agencies. Divisions of the department continue to provide internships at both graduate and undergraduate levels enabling students to gain field work experience in social work, counseling, law, medicine, and education.

In its continuing effort to improve the delivery of services to children and their families, staff members on all levels of the department serve on various judicial and legislative committees. Department staff actively assisted in the research and drafting of the Foster-Care Review Legislation recently enacted by the General Court and continue to serve on various committees concerned with the implementation of the statute's requirements.

The Department assisted in the research and implementation of the Trial Court's Statewide Judicial Response System which replaces a similar service vehicle provided in the Boston Division for the past six years. All judges of the Juvenile Court Department have volunteered to serve in the new Trial Court Statewide Judicial Response System.

CASA Director Patricia Walsh

Land Court Department

The statistics of the Land Court Department demonstrate that its caseload has again increased. The department is very grateful to the staff in the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice for its assistance, which enabled the department to keep pace with this increase.

The breakdown of newly-filed cases into categories shows that the number of tax foreclosure petitions increased significantly, while the number or mortgage foreclosure petitions declined. The processing of both types of foreclosures requires a considerable amount of time and effort by court personnel, and the Land Court Department is currently experiencing a backlog in the tax department. The department is taking steps to dissolve this backlog, including the redrafting of some of its forms. It is hoped that this problem will be resolved soon.

The number of land registration petitions has declined, but only slightly. Since the land registration procedure is rather expensive and time consuming, this indicates that the numbers of the conveyancing bar still feel that land registration is worth the time and effort. The Land Court is constantly seeking ways to make the process quicker and less expensive.

The court is still having problems with its engineering department. The engineering department has over 800 subdivision plans which have been submitted to the court and are waiting to be drafted and checked by Land Court draftsmen. Steps are being taken to rectify the situation, including restricting public access to the engineering department at certain times. The Land Court hopes that this temporary solution, while it may be an inconvenience to some, will help catch up in the drafting of these plans.

On contested cases in the court, the wait for a hearing is still quite short. This is due to the court policy of keeping an active interest in all cases and putting them on a "call of the list" sua sponte if the case seems to be getting "stagnant." It is hoped that this policy will avoid having to dismiss as many cases as in the past for lack of prosecution.

The Land Court is located on the fourth floor of the old Suffolk County Courhouse, and there are many people who come into the court and say that the quarters look like "something out of Charles Dickens." Nevertheless, the Land Court is attempting to improve both the facilities and the working conditions and are grateful to both the Courthouse Commission and the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice for their help. The Land Court is constantly striving to modernize and simplify procedures, and the recent acquisition of several computers, plotters, and word-processors should enable the department to do so.

Probate and Family Court Department

The Probate and Family Court Department, which consists of 14 divisions located in each county of the Commonwealth, has jurisdiction over such family related matters as divorce, separate support, custody and adoptions, as well as probate matters such as wills, trusts, guardianships, conservatorships, etc. It also has general equity jurisdiction, the importance of which has increased in recent years due to the "right to die," medical treatment, and anti-psychotic drug cases.

Records management was a major project for the department in 1984. A standard numbering, docketing and case folder system began on January 1, 1984, throughout the Commonwealth. Flat filing for new cases was mandated for all divisions. The system is the first step in automating registry functions.

Looking forward to 1985, a systems analysis team from the Office of the Chief Administrative Justice will conduct a study of paperflow and information management and will present an automation plan to the department. Pilot projects will begin as a result of the automation study. Also envisioned is a statewide forms management initiative to provide less expensive, better quality forms to all the courts from a single source. Additional flat-filing equipment and enhanced microfilming capability will also be secured.

The most significant legal development affecting the department this year was the Supreme Judicial Court's decision in Rogers v. Cmmr. of Mental Health. Pursuant to that decision, it is expected that several thousand new guardianships seeking authority to administer antipsychotic drugs to incompetent individuals will be brought. The department, in conjunction with the Mental Health Legal Advisors Committee, began a training program for attorneys to handle these cases in most of the affected divisions. Preparations were also made for adjustments in court scheduling to handle them.

The department continued its efforts in caseflow management in 1984. Efforts are being made to reach the announced goal of having all contested trials heard within 60 days after request. In almost all divisions, the goal of 30 days of delay from request to hearing in uncontested cases has been met. Numerous activities are taking place to achieve these goals.

A standing order is in place which requires all contested cases with an expected duration of two hours or more to be pre-tried. Prior to the pre-trial counsel are required to prepare detailed memoranda and to meet to explore settlement possibilities. The order was adopted after experience in a few courts showed that well-run pre-trials can settle over 50 percent of contested cases. While almost all civil cases settle eventually, pre-trial fosters disposition before several days are blocked out for a trial, which leads to better utilization of judges' time.

Satellite sessions at Boston University and a number of District Courts in the Middlesex, Norfolk, and Worcester Divisions were continued. These sessions handle long and complex cases on specially assigned lists which allows the regular sessions to deal with greater numbers of short cases, motions, etc.

Since accurate information is crucial to scheduling of justices and sessions, the Administrative Office continued its policy of periodic audits of trial statistics. A representative of the office visited selected divisions to review trial delay computation and disposition information.

Of great assistance to the department in case management is the procedure estblished by the Chief Administrative Justice wherein related cases in two departments are assigned by him to one judge for hearing. This procedure eliminates the problem of a "slow" case in one department holding up disposition of a related matter in another. Two-thirds of the interdepartmental assignments involving probate cases have been handled by justices of this department.

The Case Flow Management Committee began a second round of visits to the courts to evaluate the implementation of prior recommendations and assess present conditions in the courts on issues ranging from facilities to personnel to trial delay. As part of each visit, the committee meets with representatives of local bar associations to get feedback on their perceptions of the strengths and weaknesses of the court. The committee has gotten an excellent reception from court personnel and the bar, in part because it provides a forum for raising issues which fact-to-face meetings with local judges might inhibit. After each visit, a report to the Chief Justice and the Chief Administrative Justice is prepared. After soliciting comments on the report from the justices, register, and chief probation officer, an implementation memorandum is issued by the Chief Justice.

The department has been able to observe different scheduling and calendar systems in the 14 Probate and Family Courts. Experience has confirmed the findings of studies by the National Center for State Courts and other groups which suggest that trial scheduling and motivation of all participants, and not the calendar system employed, are the key factors in reducing delay. The two basic types of calendaring systems are the individual calendar and master calendar. Both have pros and cons.

Under a master calendar system, cases are not pre-assigned to particular justices. Motions are heard in a single session, which doubles as an assignment session for the day's list. If a cases settles before its trial, another is available to take its place on the master list. A drawback to this system is that complex cases with extensive motions may not get the individual supervision that they need. Inordinate amounts of time can be taken reviewing history before a judge who is unfamiliar to the case.

In an individual calendar system, a case is assigned to a particular justice upon entry. That justice hears all motions, pre-trials, and the trial. The system gives the judge more latitude over schedules, assignments, and the pace of litigation. It allows the justice to become acquainted with complex cases which avoids repetitive dissertations in hearings before different justices on motions and pre-trial matters.

In practice, however, individual calendars have not produced faster dispositions in all sessions. Success varies among justices. Schedules have become less, rather than more, flexible in some cases with accessibility to judges being more limited, and the entire process stops during vacations and illness. The system eliminates peer pressure to keep up the pace since no other justice is affected by actions of another judge. The bar has complained that judges sometimes become too familiar with cases in the pre-trial stage which causes some clients to think that a case is decided before the trial begins. Administrative flexibility is also reduced since the number of justices assigned to a division cannot be changed on short notice.

The department will continue its experiments with different types of calendars, including hybrid systems in which complex cases are assigned to an individual calendar session while routine cases continue on a master calendar list.

Superior Court Department

The Superior Court Department holds continuous sessions in the Commonwealth's 14 counties. At any given time, approximately 70 to 73 civil and criminal sessions are in operation. In addition to the 61 Justices of the Superior Court, Recall Justices and Justices designated from other departments of the Trial Court by Chief Administrative Justice are assigned to the Superior Court Department to sit on a circuit basis statewide.

Regional Administration of the department strengthens the court's management systems. Seven Regional Administrative Justices are delegated responsibiltity for managing and coordinating the efforts of other Justices, clerks, prosecutors, probation officers, and the local bar to achieve a continuous flow of court business. Regional Administrative Justices have the authority to assign capital cases, convene medical malpractice tribunals, and redesignate sessions to either civil and/or criminal depending on the types of cases awaiting trial.

The Superior Court, concurrently with the Supreme Judicial Court, has original jurisdiction of civil actions and matters in which equitable relief is sought, cognizant under the general principles of equity jurisprudence and exclusive original jurisdiction of all actions in which injunctive relief is sought in any matter involving or growing out of a labor dispute. The court has original jurisdiction over the processing of all Petitions on Motions seeking authorization for an abortion under General Laws, Chapter 112, Section 12S, inserted by Statute 1980, Chapter 240, as well as original jurisdiction both for the United States District Court and the Massachusetts Trial Courts, over the convening of medical malpractice tribunals under General Laws, Chapter 231, Section 60B.

In criminal proceedings, the court has original jurisdiction of all crimes and generally exercises jurisdiction over all felony matters except those of which other courts, by statute, have original and/or concurrent jurisdiction.

The Superior Court annually employs 28 law clerks to assist the Justices with research at motion and trial sessions. Each fall, 28 law school graduates of outstanding legal ability are selected to serve the Justices for a one-year term which commences the September following their graduation from law school. Each spring the Chief Justice selects two law clerks to serve as Chief Law Clerk and Deputy Chief Law Clerk for the following clerkship year.

Like the Justices, the law clerks "ride circuit" from county to county on a monthly basis. Under the guidance and supervision of the Chief Law Clerk and Deputy Chief Law Clerk, law clerks prepare memoranda, as well as assist the Justices in writing draft decisions and proposed jury instructions. Their assignments flow directly from actual cases before the court. Subject matter varies from homocides to antitrust cases. Assignments range from major, indepth research on unsetled questions of law to quick-answer research involving the admissibility of evidence at trials in progress. As of September 1983, the law clerks have access to Lexis and Westlaw computer terminals to assist them to their work.

This year, with the expansion of the office from 24 to 28, two law clerks can now be assigned to all outlying counties. This has resulted in a dramatic increase in the effective use of the clerks. Typically, one clerk was responsible to the five Judges sitting in any one county. That ratio is now lowered to a much more manageable figure (1:2.5). Moreover, counties with sittings in more than one location (Bristol and Essex Counties) are more easily serviced by two clerks. The expansion of the law clerk's office has enabled that office to provide essential services to the Justices in outlying counties more frequently, without any cutting back on the resources provided in Middlesex and Suffolk Counties.

Justices sitting in Suffolk County now phone the law clerks directly to relate their assignments. Divided into two or three groups, the clerks are responsible for ensuring an equitable distribution of assignments. This system replaces the format under which Suffolk Justices phoned the Chief or Deputy Chief Law Clerk who in turn related the particular query to one of the clerks. The new approach reduces the chances of miscommunication of assignments and allows the Chief and Deputy Chief Law Clerk to devote more time to research assistance and other more important duties.

The Law Clerk's office is updating the criminal jury charge book used by the Justices. It will include approximately 30 charges related to substantive crimes and other criminal matters. Last updated in 1980, the charge book is scheduled to be distributed in February 1985.

One of the projects initiated this year by the Chief and Deputy Chief Law Clerks is the monthly seminar program. Each month one Judge and one law clerk collaborate in the presentation of a topical issue to the Law Clerk's Office. The seminars provide a forum in indepth discussion and analysis of important issues which may appear in subsequent cases. At the same time, the program enhances the Justices' exposure to the clerks. Previous seminars have dealt with the application of G.L. c.93A to securities transactions and a general review of Massachusetts zoning and variance law. Scheduled topics include the implications of Commonwealth v. Daye, 393 Mass. 55 (1984). (Adoption of Proposed Mass. R. Evid. 801(d)(1)(A)) and possible employment discrimination in the termination of at-will employment contracts.

The Superior Court Judicial Internship Program allows law students from Harvard, Boston College, Boston University, New England, Northeastern, Suffolk, and Western New England Law School the opportunity to earn course credit while observing civil and criminal trials, motions, and assignment sessions.

In its eleventh year, the program seeks to accomplish two goals. First, it permits a select group of third-year law students to observe and discuss with Judges the nature of judging, its problems, and solutions. Second, it gives the students a greater knowledge and appreciation of the role of the attorney in the classroom and the techniques and pitfalls of the adversary system. The program is conducted during the spring semester.

The Justices of the Superior Court with the assistance of the Probation Service continue to regularly consult the Sentencing Guidelines structure after conviction by jury verdict or upon findings of guilty by a Trial Judge. The guideline structure has been utilized as a reliable sentencing aid and significant progress towards uniformity in sentencing has been achieved by use of the guidelines. Sentencing continues to receive legislative attention as well as innovations such as intensive probation as an alternative to incarceration in selected cases.

During 1984 the court has intensified its efforts to manage its heavy caseload. At any given time during the year, there were about 4,500 to 5,000 pending criminal cases and approximately one-half of the sessions was assigned to handle criminal business in order to stay current. The number of pending civil cases has crept upwards from about 76,000 to about 79,000 cases. A pilot program to track "small" civil cases was initiated in Plymouth County so that there would be cut-off dates for completing trial preparation and a certain trial date within six months of entry. This program has been quite successful in dealing with small cases such as District Court appeals. It is expected that the program will be expanded in 1985 to include the average cases on the docket and to require that they be ready for trial in not more than two years from entry. Depending on the success of this effort, the system may be expanded to include all Superior Courts. It is apparent that time standards for the processing of cases should be implemented as soon as possible to aid in the prompt disposition of civil litigation.

Introduction

The following section presents detailed data on the various caseloads of the seven departments of the Trial Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Different departments record and report caseload-related data at various levels of detail and in categories best suited to explain caseflow within their respective legal jurisdiction.

This report presents tables and graphs which, as data permits, includes the following:

- cases pending at the start of the fiscal year
- cases added
- cases disposed of or otherwise terminated
- cases pending at the end of the fiscal year
- age of the caseload pending at year-end.

These five basic data elements are also used to generate a series of indicators of a department's effectiveness in meeting its demands. These indicators include:

- comparison of end pending volume to start pending volume
- throughput or rate of dispositions relative to rate of cases added
- historic comparisons of cases pending, cases added or cases disposed
- analyses of the composition of the categories of cases pending or added and of the types of dispositions.

Finally, the report presents a brief narrative overview of the data from each department. The narrative points out and attempts to explain any trends, highlights, and peculiarities of the data which follow.

This section contains the data tables and graphs displaying information on the movement of cases in five casetype areas through the Boston Municipal Court Department during Fiscal Year 1984.

Criminal

Criminal caseload data in the Boston Municipal Court Department are recorded in three categories: motor vehicle, domestic relations, and other criminal complaints.

During Fiscal Year 1984, the Boston Municipal Court Department received 17,985 criminal complaints. This is an increase of 1,415 complaints or 8.6 percent over Fiscal Year 1983. Motor vehicle related complaints increased by 22 percent over Fiscal Year 1983 levels, the largest increase of the three complaint categories. This increase in motor vehicle related complaints parallels the trend in the District Court Department. However, motor vehicle related complaints account for only 30 percent of the Boston Municipal Court Department's 1984 caseload while accounting for 69.4 percent of the District Court Departments Fiscal Year 1984 caseload.

The number of complaints pending trial for which a defendant is not currently incarcerated increased over the Fiscal Year 1983 level by 1,825 complaints or 22 percent.

In Fiscal Year 1984 the Boston Municipal Court Department disposed of 8,048 complaints at trial. This is a continuation of the past five years of decreasing complaint dispositions. The Fiscal Year 1984 disposition-at-trial level is down 4 percent from Fiscal Year 1983 and 21 percent from Fiscal Year 1980.

Only 4 percent of the Fiscal Year 1984 dispositions-at-trial were by guilty plea. The decrease in guilty pleas contributes to the overall trend toward decreasing dispositions by causing the court to commit more time and other resources to each case.

The 8,048 complaints disposed of at trial, resulted in the following breakdown in the sentence types imposed:

- 41 percent were Placed on File, Dismissed, etc.
- 28 percent were Placed on Probation
- 6 percent were Bound Over to the Grand Jury
- 5 percent were Defendant Fined
- 5 percent were Defendant Acquitted
- 4 percent were Defendant Imprisoned
- 11 percent were disposed of by other means

The number of complaint dispositions which have resulted in Defendants Acquitted, Defendants Fined, or Defendants Bound Over to the Grand Jury have generally decreased in each of the past five year.

Jury-of-Six Caseload

The department began Fiscal Year 1984 with 480 active jury request awaiting trial.

During the next 12 months, the department received 2,588 additional requests for jury trial. Forty-seven percent of these requests were for a jury trial in the first instance. The remainder of these requests were de novo appeals. All juvenile delinquency cases initiated in Boston are under the jurisdiction of the Boston Juvenile Court Division.

Requests received have steadily increased in each of the four years since the establishment of the jury-of-six caseload in the department. The most consistent aspect of this growth has been in the increase of first instance jury requests. First instance requests have more than doubled in four years and are up 26 percent from Fiscal Year 1983 levels.

There are three ways in which a jury request can be terminated as an active status case: withdrawal of appeal, disposition by the court, and failure to appear or default by the defendant.

Fiscal Year 1984 withdrawal of appeals are more than double last fiscal years volume. The 130 withdrawals equal 11 percent of the total de novo appeal requests received.

Total dispositions were down in Fiscal Year 1984 from Fiscal Year 1983. The only category of dispositions for which an increase was reported in Fiscal Year 1984 was that of initial jury requests disposed of at a nonjury or bench trial.

Jury session dispositions for Fiscal Year 1984 break down as follows:

- 45 percent after bench trial
- 28 percent after guilty plea
- 8 percent after jury trial
- 18 percent by other means of disposition

Relative to the District Court Department jury sessions, the Boston Municipal Court Department disposes of a much larger proportion of its jury caseload by bench trial and a much smaller proportion by guilty pleas.

There was a net increase of 47 defaults during Fiscal Year 1984. At year's end, a total of 1,023 defaults were pending in the department.

At the close of Fiscal Year 1984, the department reported 542 active jury requests awaiting trial. This is an increase of 62 cases from the start of the fiscal year. The median age of a jury request pending in the department was 47.6 days.

Decriminalized Motor Vehicle Violations

Effective on January 1, 1979, all motor vehicle violations which do not carry the penalty of imprisonment and for which the maximum penalty (see G.L.c.90, s.20F) does not exceed $100 for the first offense are classified as decriminalized matters.

In Fiscal Year 1984, the department recorded 6,663 citations returned from area law enforcement agencies. This is an increase of 3,561 citations or 115 percent over Fiscal Year 1983. This volume marks an increase to pre-Fiscal Year 1982 levels after two years of decreased activity.

Non-Criminal Caseload

A total of 37,871 non-criminal matters were initiated during the year. This is an increase of 3,569 cases or 10 percent over Fiscal Year 1983 and continues the pattern of annual increases in non-criminal filings begun in Fiscal Year 1982.

Civil cases, small claims, and small claims supplementary process, which comprise 95.6 percent of the department's non-criminal case filings, have risen consistently over the past five years.

One case category, summary process, has decreased consistently since Fiscal Year 1980, an indication of the emergence of the Housing Court Department as the forum of choice for landlord-tenant conflicts.

During Fiscal Year 1984, the Probation Department received 296 U.R.E.S.A. cases. This added to a workload of 138 cases already open and under supervision and 69 cases under investigation. Two hundred and seventy-six cases were redirected to the court division with the appropriate geographic jurisdiction. Total collections of support payments for the year totalled $131,145.57.

Dispositions have parallelled filings over the past five years. In Fiscal Year 1984, the department disposed of 28,227 non-criminal matters. This is up 3,939 dispositions over last year and a 69 percent increase over four years ago. The Fiscal Year 1984 disposition volume resulted in a throughput ratio (dispositions per 100 filings) of 75 percent.

Appellate Division

The Boston Municipal Court Department Appellate Division is composed of three justices. Panels are composed of not more than three justices; two justices constitute a quorum. The panel is authorized to hear appeals on points of law only from the department's civil session.

Data is included for Fiscal Year 1984 division activity.

District Court Department

The District Court Department records detailed caseflow data in six areas of the legal jurisdiction of its 69 divisions.

Criminal Caseload

Criminal complaints filed and disposed of in the District Court Department were at the highest levels of the past five years in Fiscal Year 1984.

An increase in motor vehicle related complaints underlies this increased activity. Criminal complaints filed in Fiscal Year 1984 totalled 651,375. Motor vehicle related complaints accounted for 68 percent of all complaints filed. This single complaint category has increased by 90,754 complaints or 26 percent over Fiscal Year 1983.

The remaining 31 percent, non-motor vehicle related complaints, was down slightly from last year.

The complaints comprising the caseload break down as follows:

- 6% Operating Under the Influence
- 3% Serious Motor Vehicle
- 61% Other Motor Vehicle Complaints
- 1% Nonsupport
- 3% Assault Crimes
- 1% Breaking and Entering
- 7% Larceny and Fraud
- 3% Narcotics
- 2% Disorderly Conduct
- 12% Other Criminal Complaints

There were 525,616 criminal complaints disposed of by the department in Fiscal Year 1984. This is up 21 percent from last year. Throughput for the fiscal year was 79 percent.

Jury-of-Six Caseload

There were 2,550 active jury requests pending before the 18 jury session divisions at the start of the fiscal year.

During the year, 16,126 requests for jury trial were received. More than half of these requests, 54.3 percent, were requests for a jury trial in the first instance by adult defendants. Adult defendants requesting a de novo jury trial on appeal accounted for an additional 44.2 percent of all requests. Requests for jury trials both de novo and in the first instance for juvenile delinquency and children in Need of service cases made up the remaining 1.5 percent.

The Fiscal Year 1984 jury request volume is 2 percent above last year's 15,874 requests.

There were 931 appeals withdrawn in Fiscal Year 1984. This is 6 percent of all requests received, and it is 12.8 percent of all de novo appeal jury requests received.

Dispositions totalled 14,493, up for the third consecutive year. The majority of jury requests, 58 percent, were disposed of after guilty plea. Fifteen percent were disposed of after a complete jury trial, and 18 percent were disposed of by all other means of disposition.

The department began the year with 2,486 defaults pending and closed the year with 2,751 defaults pending, a net increase of 265 defaults.

At the end of Fiscal Year 1984, there were 2,696 jury requests actively awaiting action by the District Court Department, up 146 pending requests from the start of the year. Eighty-two percent of this end pending caseload has been pending for less than 90 days. The median age of an active pending request for the department is 39.8 days.

Decriminalized Motor Vehicle Activity

In Fiscal Year 1984, law enforcement agencies issued 678,435 citations for decriminalized motor vehicle violations. This is an increase of 82,191 citations or 14 percent over Fiscal Year 1983.

During the same period, 397,196 citations were disposed of non-criminally through the payment of a fine. This is a throughput rate of 58.5 percent for the year.

For the same period, there were 95,945 clerk-magistrate hearings to dispose of contested decriminalized motor vehicle complaints. This is an increase of 37,427 hearing or 64 percent over the Fiscal Year 1983 level.

Non-Criminal Caseload

The District Court Department reports data for 10 categories of non-criminal case activity. Overall, the changes in these case categories in Fiscal Year 1984 relative to the past several years were minor. However, several subtle but important changes are apparent in both the volume and composition of the caseload.

New cases entered for all types of non-criminal case categories totalled 230,300 for Fiscal Year 1984. This is down 2 percent from last year and continues the general trend toward small decreases in the number of non-criminal cases filed each year.

In terms of composition, the department's Fiscal Year 1984 caseload is as follows:

- 53% Small Claims Cases
- 20% Civil Cases
- 8% Summary Process Cases
- 7% Civil Supplementary Process Cases
- 7% Spousal Abuse Petitions
- 2% U.R.E.S.A. Cases
- 2% Mental Commitment Cases
- 1% Transfer Cases, Victims of Violent Crimes, etc.

Both in number and in proportion of the total caseload, civil, summary process, and civil supplementary process filings are declining, while small claims, spousal abuse, and mental commitments have increased over the past five years.

District Court Department dispositions totalled 171,259 for the fiscal year. This brings the ratio of cases disposed to entries to 74 percent.

Juvenile Caseload

Three categories of juvenile related business are reported: juvenile delinquency, children in need of services (CHINS), and care and protection cases.

In Fiscal Year 1984, there was less juvenile delinquency activity than there has been in past years. Relative to last year, total juvenile delinquency complaints filed were down by 14 percent to 27,296 complaints. motor vehicle related delinquency complaints, 23 percent of the total, were also down from Fiscal Year 1983 by 24 percent.

Disposition of delinquency complaints corresponded to this decrease in filings. Dispositions decreased by 3,700 or 14 percent from the previous year's disposition volume.

Both CHINS and care and protection case activity was up over last year. Fiscal Year 1984 is the third consecutive year in which the number of CHINS applications received and petitions issued have increased. Dispositions held roughly consistent with the past several years at between 1,800 and 2,000 per year.

Care and protection petitions received were up 10 percent over last year. In Fiscal Year 1984, 1,027 petitions were received and 555 petitions were disposed of by the court.

Appellate Division

There are three regional appellate division locations for the District Court Department. Each of these divisions are composed of five justices. The panels are authorized to hear appelas on points of law only in non-criminal cases from the divisions of the District Court Department. Panels are composed of not more than three justices; two justices constitute a quorum.

Appellate Division activity was down, in general, from Fiscal Year 1983. average time from trial court judgment to appellate division entry decreased by 147 days from last year's average, while average days from appellate division entry to disposition increased by 11 days.

Four categories of caseload data are included for two divisions of the Housing Court Department. The section contains a data table and graphs which present criminal, summary process, small claims, and civil cases entered in the department during Fiscal Year 1984.

The department received a total of 16,019 new entries in four case categories in Fiscal Year 1984, down 9 percent from last year. Sixty-four percent of these entries were in the Boston Division.

Fiscal Year 1984 total entries are comprised of the following:

- 40% summary process cases
- 36% criminal cases
- 12% civil cases
- 12% small claims cases

Decreased entries relative to Fiscal Year 1983 were reported in both the criminal (-26%) and the small claims (-19%) case categories. Increased entries were reported in the summary process (+13%) and civil (+9%) case categories. This pattern was true for the caseloads in the individual divisions as well.

Overall, Boston Division entries increased from the Fiscal Year 1983 volume by 215 to a total of 10,228 entries. While the Hampden County Division entries appeared to decrease by 24 percent in Fiscal Year 1984, it should be noted that the division's figures are not directly comparable. Hampden's Fiscal Year 1984 criminal entry figure does not include show cause hearings, while the division did include them in its Fiscal Year 1983 figure.

Department

Juvenile Court Department

The Juvenile Court Department is composed of four divisions which have juvenile jurisdiction in four geographic areas: the cities of Boston, Springfield, and Worcester and the County of Bristol. The department collects and reports data on five casetypes, a count of judicial determinations, and, for the the first time, Juvenile Court Department jury-of-six activity for the fiscal year.

Juvenile Caseload

Within the five casetypes there has been considerable fluctuation in the number of filings in each of the past five fiscal years. In Fiscal Year 1984, decreases were reported for four of five casetypes.

Juvenile delinquency complaints, 6,242 in Fiscal Year 1984, have declined in each of the past five years, while the volume in the remaining casetypes present no clear trend.

Two of the decreases in case filings were minor. Criminal (Adult) cases, juveniles bound over for hearing as an adult, a relatively small portion of the total caseload, decreased from 38 in Fiscal Year 1983 to just 9 in Fiscal Year 1984. Children in need of service filings, 1,698 in Fiscal Year 1984, decreased by 30 from Fiscal Year 1983 levels.

In Fiscal Year 1984, 490 care and protection petitions were filed representing 798 children. In Fiscal Year 1983, the comparable figures were 552 petitions involving 980 children.

An area where a significant increase in filings was reported was contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Cases initiated against adults almost doubled from last year and more than doubled over previous years filings.

Jury-of-Six Caseload

Jury-of-Six caseload data is reported for three divisions of the department.Bristol Division cases are heard and reported by the New Bedford Division of the District Court Department.

The department began the fiscal year with 77 jury requests actively pending before the court. During the year, an additional 209 jury requests were received. Eighty-two percent of these requests were for a jury on appeal de novo. The remaining were first instance requests. Juvenile/CHINS requests accounted for 201 of the 209 total requests.

Thirty appeals were withdrawn during Fiscal Year 1984. This amounted to 17.5 percent of all de novo appeal requests filed and 14.4 percent of total requests filed. This brought the net total caseload available for action by the court to 256 requests.

The department disposed of 196 requests during the year.

The disposition categories are:

- 40% by Guilty Plea/Admission of Guilt
- 16% by Jury-Waived Trial
- 14% by Jury Trial
- 29% by Other Means of Disposition

At the end of the fiscal year, there were 41 cases actively pending and 19 cases on default bringing the total pending request to 60 cases. Of the 41 active requests pending, 23 had been pending for less than 60 days.

Land Court Department

The Land Court Department reports caseload data in four categories. In addition, the department presents a count of the number of decree and subdivision plans drawn up by its Engineering Department as well as a general report of the department's cost to the Commonwealth.

Caseload

The Land Court Department began Fiscal Year 1984 with 21,682 cases awaiting action by the court. During the year, an additional 9,918 cases were entered bringing the total caseload available for action by the court to 31,600 cases.

Case entries increased by 8 percent in Fiscal Year 1984 relative to Fiscal Year 1983. While entries in the land registration, subsequent and tax liens categories have increased in recent years, the opposite trend is indicated for land registration/confirmation, and equity/miscellaneous filings.

The Department disposed of 8,237 cases in Fiscal Year 1984, a 12 percent increase over last year. This disposition level gives the department an annual throughput rate of 83 dispositions per 100 cases entered.

Calculating this throughput ratio for each of the individual casetypes, it is clear that the department disposes of three of its four casetypes with a high degree of efficiency. As a result, the department's pending caseload increased by 8 percent during Fiscal Year 1984. The 20 percent increase in the tax lien pending caseload accounted for 96 percent of the overall increase in the department's pending caseload.

Plans

In recent years, there has been a shift in the workload of the Land Court Department's Engineering staff from decree plans to subdivision plans. The number of decree plans required of the department has decreased in the past several years, while subdivision plans increased by 20 percent over the Fiscal Year 1983 plan production level. As a result, total plan production for Fiscal Year 1984 was up by 143 plans over last fiscal year.

Superior Court Department

The Superior Court Department reports caseload data in two broad categories: criminal and civil. During Fiscal Year 1984, the department made the transition from a manual data collection system to an automated data collection system. In the process of this transition, several changes were made in the manner and categories of data collected. The following data is drawn from several, not always compatible sources, and, therefore, caution should be used in interpreting the data.

Criminal Caseload

The department began the fiscal year with 5,157 defendants awaiting trial. During the next 12 months, cases were commenced against an additional 6,503 defendants. This brought the total defendant-based caseload available for action by the court in Fiscal Year 1984 to 11,660 defendants.

The 6,503 additional defendant-based cases are an increase of 1.3 percent or 84 defendants over the previous year. This volume of new cases is, however, down 14 percent from Fiscal Year 1982 and 19 percent from Fiscal Year 1981.

The department disposed of 7,076 defendants during the fiscal year, an increase of 204 defendant dispositions or 3 percent over last year. This indicates that the department:

- disposed of 61 percent of the total available caseload.
- disposed of 109 defendants for every 100 defendant-based cases commenced.

At the end of Fiscal Year 1984, there were 4,584 defendants awaiting trial. This is 573 defendants or 11 percent fewer defendants than were pending at the start of the year.

Appellate Division

The Appellate Division of the Superior Court Department is authorized to review sentences from the criminal sessions of the Superior Court Department.

The division began the year with 471 sentences pending review. During the year 792 appeals were entered for review, and 834 were reviewed by the division. At the close of the year, there were 429 appeals pending review.

Civil Caseload

There were 74,454 civil cases pending in the 14 divisions of the Superior Court Department at the start of Fiscal Year 1984. During the year, 31,123 additional cases were commenced while 26,508 cases were disposed of.

The volume of cases commenced remained close to last year's level, decreasing by only 95 cases or .3 percent in Fiscal Year 1984. Dispositions, however, decreased by 2,276 or 8 percent from Fiscal Year 1983. Throughput for the department for the year was 85 percent, and the department disposed of 25 percent of the total caseload available for disposition during the year.

Four divisions, Barnstable, Dukes, Hampshire, and Suffolk, disposed of more cases than they received, thereby decreasing the number of cases awaiting trial at the end of the fiscal year in those divisions.

At the close of Fiscal Year 1984, there were 77,312 cases awaiting trial, an increase of 7.9 percent over 12 months.

Introduction. Calendar year 1984 marked a period of transition for the Office of the Commissioner of Probation (OCP). Joseph P. Foley, Commissioner from 1978 to 1984, retired after serving 37 distinguished years in Massachusetts Probation. His successor Donald Cochran, was appointed Commissioner effective July 1, 1984, and immediately assured the Probation Service that the excellence that the Foley administration was noted for will prevail during his term as Commissioner.

A major goal of the Office of the Commissioner of Probation during 1984 was the improvement of its Management Information System. In its new format, the Monthly Report of Probation Activities (MRPA) provides more reliable data to the Probation Service, the Judiciary, and a host of other agencies who utilized the information on a regular basis.

All yearly statistical reports generated by OCP's Management Information System are included in the appendix section of this document. Most noteworthy during 1984 was the large sum of monies collected by the probation service. Probation's continued sucess with money collection has grossed $100,000,000 during 1984.

The Probation Central File (PCF) continues to respond to requests from the courts, law enforcement agencies, and other organizations certified to receive the criminal offender record information that is stored in the Office of the Commissioner of Probation. PCF also services a large number of persons requesting record information on walk-in basis. At the close of 1984, Probation Central File contained criminal offender record information on nearly 7 million persons.

During March 1984, the Trial Court Burroughs B1800 computer was dedicated solely for the automation of the Probation Central File. The use of the computer exclusively by the Office of the Commissioner of Probation has enabled all data entry and operations to run efficiently and on schedule. As of December 1984, the Office of the Commissioner of Probation's computer had on file the criminal records of 87,000 offenders, all presently active in the court system. Also on file are 346,000 offenders who have been criminally inactive for the past 15 years.

Bringing to 11 the number of accredited probation offices in the Trial Court, the Massachusetts Probation Accreditation Commission (MPAC) awarded two certificates of Accreditation during 1984. Honored as newly accredited courts are the Norfolk Division of the Superior Court Department and the Westborough Division of the District Court Department.

During 1984, the Research and Statistical Bureau produced a number of research reports focusing on a wide range of issues. Most notable are the findings of a study on drunk drivers in Massachusetts. Researchers profiled the typical drunk driver as a substance abuser who has committed previous criminal offenses and who commonly drinks and drives. The study concluded that Massachusetts' courts are concerned with this phenomenon and have gotten tough with the drunk driver. Also of importance are the findings of a report issued on the Massachusetts Probation Risk/Need Classification System. Implemented in April 1982, Risk/Need Classification is a statewide system by which all probationers are evaluated in the same manner. Recent research has thoroughly analyzed the probation classification system. The report has targeted those offender characteristics that have posed the greatest risk to public safety and has identified the areas where probation practices have been able to reduce the recidivism rate.

Training sponsored by this office reached over 1500 field and central office probation staff during 1984. In addition to four Orientation Programs for new probation officers, the training division was responsible for holding seven Management Training Seminars, including a three-part "Supervisory Skills" Workship for central office supervisors; standards training for Probate probation offices; and training sessions in the following areas:

Surrender Workshops

Mental Health and Chapter 123

Alcohol and the Juvenile Offender

"Doing Justice" Workshop at Brandeis University

As hosts of the Ninth Annual National Conference of the American Probation and Parole Association and the Forty-fifth Annual New England Conference on Crime and Delinquency, many OCP employees adjusted their busy schedules and volunteered both personal time and energy to make the conference a major success in 1984.

- Input into the system (including arraignments, subsequent actions, etc.) - 673,630

- Inquiries to the system (from all resources) - 515,336

Looking more closely at the types of inquiries to the system, the volume of telephone requests from local probation offices increased 17% from 1983 to 1984, personal inquiries rose 33%, and teletype inquiries increased 16%.

Computerization. The Trial Court Burroughs B1800 Computer has been dedicated exclusively for OCP automation since March 1984. OCP is continuing to fully automate the manual Criminal Offender Record Information System (CORI).

As of the end of December 1984, the automated CORI system contained information on 87,000 persons who were active in the court system during the latter half of 1984. In addition, the computer stores information on 346,000 offenders who have not had a court appearance within the last 15 years.

Research. The Office of the Commissioner of Probation is mandated under Chapter 276, Section 98 of the Massachusetts General Laws to "compile, evaluate, and make available for official and public education . . . statistical information on delinquency, crime and appropriate family matters."

During 1984, the Research and Statistical Bureau produced a number of research reports, focusing on a range of issues, from drug trafficking to drunk driving and the Risk/Need Classification System. The following are the reports that were published in 1984:

- Sentencing Patterns for Drug Dealers
- Report of Preliminary Findings on Risk/Need Supervision
- Needs of Offenders Under Risk/Need Classification in Massachusetts
- Executive Summary of Research Findings from the Massachusetts Risk/Need Classification System Report #5
- Distribution of Risk/Need Supervision Cases by Offenses in the Massachusetts Trial Court
- An Evaluation of Drunk Driving in Massachusetts Under Chapter 373, Acts of 1982
- DUIL: Dispositions and Placements in Drivers Alcohol Education Programs 1977 to 1983.

Accredition. The Massachusetts Probation Accreditation Commission (MPAC) awarded two certificates of Accreditation during 1984. The probation office of the Norfolk Division of the Superior Court Department became the third Superior Court office accreditated, and the Westborough Division of the District Court Department became the eleventh probation office overall to receive an award since the MPAC began bestowing certificates in 1981.

Leo Osgood, Jr., Assistant Dean of Student Assistance Servies, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; George B. Keezel, Program Coordinator - Project Link, Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children; James Jennings, Dean of College of Public and Community Services, University of Massachusetts at Boston; and George C. Olson, Senior Vice President and Treasurer, Home Savings Bank, Boston, were appointed to the MPAC by Commissioner Cochran, increasing the Commission to ten members.

As a result of discussions held with the MPAC, Commissioner Cochran made several discussions regarding the philosophy, the standards, the process, the structure, and the priority of the project within his new administration. The new accreditation project will utilize the best of the previous efforts of the past 15 years (1970 to 1984) and integrate those elements with the goals of the new adminstration.

Risk/Need Classification System. In the fall of 1983, the Office of the Commissioner of Probation undertook a one-year research grant, "Controlling Offenders in the Community: The Effectiveness of Community Sanctions in Massachusetts." The major objective of this research was to revalidate the Massachusetts Risk/Need Classification System, last tested in September 1981. Other objectives were to profile offender characteristics, surrender practices, and supervision strategies, and analyze their relationship to recidivism. Based on these findings, recommendations for future directions in probation can be established.

Data was obtained on all September 1982, Risk/Need supervision cases in the Superior, District/BMC, and Juvenile Courts from Risk/Need assessment forms, criminal history records, and questionnaires in regard to surrender practices.

Two reports were issued in 1984 from the work undertaken in this grant; the first entitled "Report of Preliminary Findings on Risk/Need Supervision," and the second, "Executive Summary of Research Findings from the Massachusetts Risk/Need Classification System Report #5." The data from both reports characterize a substantially disadvantaged population being serviced by the Massachusetts Probation Service. The average offender who is placed under Risk/Need supervision is male, 20 years of age with a prior criminal record, has loose ties in the community, is educationally disadvantaged, chronically unemployed, comes from a disorganized family structure, and has a current or prior alcohol or drug problem.

Analysis of the data clearly shows that offender characteristics contained on the Risk scale are related to the likelihood of individuals recidivating while under Risk/Need supervision. The overall extent of deficiencies in any one of a number of problem areas an offender has, will affect his/her subsequent criminal behavior. The findings have proven that higher risk offenders have a higher rate of recidivism than those with a lower risk on the Risk scale.

This research on the Risk/Need Classification System in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts further validates the ability of probation officers to reliably identify the high risk offender and develop an appropriate supervision strategy. The productiveness of this instrument affords effective probation supervision of the offender in the community, reducing the chances of new crimes being committed, and thus increasing public safety.

Training. The Training Department of the Office of the Commissioner of Probation (OCP) sponsored and implemented an active and varied program for the 1984 training year (January to December).

During the last year, a full-time Director of Training for OCP was designated. In addition, in July of 1984, a training coordinator was named to assist the Director. The year was divided into a two-semester training period. The first semester ran from early in the calendar year of 1984 through June, with the second semester beginning in September and concluding in December. OCP training can be categorized as orientation, management training, topical subjects, and standards training.

During 1984, 82 newly hired probation officers attended a five-day orientation program that initiated them into the Probation Service.

A total of 541 members of the Probation Service attended management training seminars. Those management issues covered during 1984 included:

- Liability - CPO's/ACPO's
- Management Skills
- Dealing with the Problem Employee
- Role of the ACPO as a Supervisor of Staff
- Basic Management Principles

Nine hundred and eighty-nine probation line personnel were trained on a variety of topical issues. The subjects discussed in 1984 were:

- Mental Health and Chapter 123
- Surrender Workshops
- Effective Counseling
- Interviewing Skills
- Alcohol and the Juvenile Offender
- Substance Abuse
- Chapter 119: Juvenile Law
- Juvenile Court and the DYS/DSS/DMH Connection
- P.O. Liability
- Mediation
- Advanced Mediation
- Training for Trainers
- "Doing Justice" Workshop at Brandeis University

During 1984, standards of operation for the Probation Court were developed, and 83 Probate and Family Court personnel received this "Standards" training.

In addition to the beforementioned field training, OCP conducted in-house sessions for central office personnel. Those programs offered during 1984 were "Basic Writing Skills," "Supervisory Skills," and a newly developed orientation program for recently hired staff employees in the Management Information Division.

Management Information System. A primary goal of the Office of the Commissioner of Probation during 1984 was to support, monitor, and evaluate a management information system that would provide relevant information to the OCP, the Probation Service, the Judiciary, and other agencies.

An important step toward the accomplishment of this goal was the revision of the MIS collection device, the Monthly Report of Probation Activity. Developed through the efforts of two advisory committees, one made up of Chief Probation Officers, and the other consisting of OCP administrative personnel, the new form contains the key variables concerning probation activities across the Commonwealth.

The efficiency and effectiveness of the revised Management Information System, together with the support of the Probation Services Administration Division in monitoring compliance with MRPA Standards, have served to greatly enhance the quality of data received from the probation offices and have thus improved the overall reliability of OCP Management Information.

Appendix. Data on the following statistical charts were compiled from the Monthly Reports of Probation Activities as submitted to the Research and Statistical Bureau, Office of the Commissioner of Probation, from the local probation offices.

The annual totals for the various key indicators are listed for calendar years 1982, 1983, and 1984 to provide a basis for analyzing shifts in probation activity.
